

Breckland
COUNCIL

Code of Conduct

February 2024

Contents

Introduction	3
Scope	4
Aim	4
Roles & Responsibilities	5
Conduct and Behaviour Standards
1.0 Employee Standards	5
2.0 Information Security	6
3.0 Political Neutrality	7
4.0 Relationships	7
Relationships with Elected Members	7
Relationships with the Local Community and Residents	7
Relationships with Contractors	7
Relationships between employees, and with job applicants or Elected Members	8
5.0 Outside Commitments	9
6.0 Intellectual Property, Inventions and Patents	9
7.0 Personal Interests	10
8.0 Separation of Roles during Tendering	10
9.0 Corruption	11
10.0 Standard of Appearance	11
11.0 Conduct Outside Working Time	12
12.0 Using Social Media	12
13.0 Substances and Alcohol	13
Information, Security and Confidentiality
14.0 Information Disclosure	14
15.0 Security	15
16.0 Confidentiality	14
17.0 Talking to the Media	15
Financial Management and Use of Resources
18.0 Appointment and Other Employment Matters	15
19.0 Gifts and Hospitality	16
20.0 Use of Financial Resources	16
21.0 Equipment and Materials	17
22.0 External Sponsorship	17
23.0 Council Sponsorship of Community or Individual Activities	17
24.0 Debts with the Employing Authority	18
Failure to Follow the Code of Conduct	18

Introduction/Purpose

The Officer Code of Conduct sets out the standards we expect from our employees, .
The code is not exhaustive in defining standards of conduct.

The Council's performance and levels of service are based on the values that guide all our activities. The Code describes how the Council puts these values into everyday practice. It explains the Council's commitments and expectations in relation to our customers and each other and provides guidance for employees and everyone who works on our behalf.

The public has a right to expect the highest levels of integrity and responsibility of all employees working for the Council. Every employee has an obligation to avoid conflicts between private interests and the employee's duty to the Council, particularly where this could adversely affect the Council's interests or in any way weaken public confidence in the conduct of the Council business.

All employees, no matter where they are working, must conduct themselves in a way that ensures the highest standards of service and protects the good reputation of the Council. We will report breaches by those on contracts of service or agency to the temporary staff provider. It may result in the withdrawal of work.

This code sets out principles which will help maintain and improve standards and protect both the employees and the employer from misunderstanding or criticism.

In accordance with the Council's disciplinary procedure, any breach of this Code may give rise to disciplinary action. A breach which is so serious as to undermine public confidence in the Council is likely to be deemed gross misconduct.

Scope

This Code of Conduct applies to all employees of Breckland Council. It does not apply to Elected Members, who have their own Code of Conduct set out in the Council's Constitution. Also in the Council's Constitution is a protocol on Member/Officer Relations.

Aim

The objectives of the Code are to:

- Clearly set out our standards of conduct
- Define the Council's expectations towards employees in their day-to-day decision-making and in their relationship with others
- Provide support in case of questions or concerns
- Provide guidance for all employees in order to maintain and improve standards and to help protect employees from misunderstanding or unjustified criticism

Roles & Responsibilities

Managers have specific responsibilities. They are expected to refer to the Code of Conduct with their team members and make sure they understand it. They are responsible for creating a safe and supportive environment that will enable employees to discuss any issues. They must ensure our standards are implemented and respected. They must behave in an exemplary way that embodies our values.

All employees must understand and respect the standards contained in the Code

Suppliers, contractors and partners are expected to apply standards that are equivalent to ours, in particular towards their employees.

Conduct and Behaviour Standards

1.0 Employee Standards

The Council has confidence in the motivation, competence and sense of responsibility of our employees. Employees are expected to provide the highest possible standard of service to the public, and, where it is part of their duties, to provide appropriate advice to colleagues and Members with impartiality.

All employees must bring our values to life through their behaviours, ensuring that they carry out our daily activities in compliance with the Code of Conduct.

All employees have regular Performance Development Review meetings (which take place quarterly and are closed down annually) during which objectives are set, performance and the respect of the Code of Conduct are assessed, and development opportunities – facilitated by appropriate training – are discussed.

The Council pays particular attention to employees' working conditions, especially the respect for individuals, the absence of discrimination, freedom of association, as well as the protection of our health and safety. No form of harassment is tolerated.

The Council operates a remote-enabled work environment and encourages Officers to work in a way that best supports efficient and effective delivery of high-quality services (subject to business needs being fully met and managerial approval), allowing them to maximise their productivity and thereby deliver the greatest value to the Council. The Council recruits employees solely on the basis of our requirements and the specific capabilities of individual applicants.

The Council develops our employees' professional skills and careers without any discrimination, whether based on ethnic origin, gender, age, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity or affiliation with a political, religious, union organisation or minority group.

Employees are expected, without fear of recrimination, to draw to the attention of an appropriate Officer to any deficiency in service, suspected impropriety or breach of Council procedures.

Respect for others

The working environment is one where all colleagues, Elected Members and the public are to be treated with dignity and respect at all times. The Bullying & Harrassment Policy along with other policies, procedures and guidance deal with this.

We expect employees to act as role models for the organisation. Employees should proactively challenge behaviour and actions that may adversely affect health and wellbeing.

Safeguarding

Employees should familiarise themselves with and follow at all times the Safeguarding Policy and information available on the intranet.

Employees in a position of trust (e.g. working with children or vulnerable adults) must inform their manager immediately if they are subject to a criminal conviction, caution, ban, police enquiry, or pending prosecution.

We may discuss this within the context of the duties of the post held. It is essential in helping to safeguard the safety of children and vulnerable adults. It is a requirement as part of the Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS) Policy and process.

Health and safety

Employees must not act in a manner liable to place anyone at risk. You must adhere to the duty of care prescribed in the Health & Safety Policy and associated procedures which can be found on the intranet.

2.0 Information Security

Employees must not misuse their position by seeking information which they do not need to know to enable them to carry out their duties. To assist this, users of the Council's information systems must keep their equipment and logging-in arrangements secure to ensure no unauthorised access. Employees should refer to the ICT Security Policy for further guidance, where necessary.

3.0 Political Neutrality

Employees serve their Council as a whole. It therefore follows they must serve all Elected Members of the Council and not just those of the politically controlling group, and must ensure that the individual rights of all Members are respected.

Senior Officers may be required to advise political groups on matters related to the Council's business. They must do so in ways that do not compromise their political neutrality and should make themselves equally available to any and all political groupings.

By law, enforcement of the political neutrality of specific posts results in the position being considered "politically restricted". Further details of political restriction, and a list of the positions subject to such, are available on the intranet.

4.0 Relationships

Relationships with Elected Members

Mutual respect between employees and Elected Members is essential to good local government.

Close personal familiarity between employees and individual Elected Members can damage the relationship and prove embarrassing to other employees and Elected Members and therefore should be avoided.

The Protocol on Member/Officer Relations, as set out in the Council's Constitution, provides more detail on this.

Relationships with the Local Community

Employees should always remember their responsibilities to the community they serve and ensure courteous, efficient and impartial delivery to all groups and individuals within the community.

Relationships with Contractors

All current and past relationships (including Directorship) of a business or private nature with any Council external contractors, or potential Council contractors, should be made known to the employee's Line Manager, Senior Manager and/or Director and recorded in the Register of Personal Interests, held by HR. Employees are to complete the Declaration Form for Personal Interests.

Orders and contracts must be awarded on merit, by fair competition against other tenders, and no special favour should be shown to businesses run by, for instance, friends, partners or relatives in the tendering process. No part of the local community should be discriminated against.

Relationships between employees, and with job applicants or Elected Members

The Council recognises that close personal relationships may exist or develop within the organisations. For the purposes of the Code, such relationships are defined as:

- Individuals who are married, dating, co-habiting, or similar
- Immediate family members (i.e. parents, step-parents, children, siblings, grandparents and grandchildren)
- Other relations (e.g. extended family such as aunts, uncles, cousins, nieces, nephews and any other individuals with whom there is a close personal relationship)

Whilst the Council does not seek to prevent relationships, and not all such may cause concern, there may be occasions where a perceived or actual conflict of interest exists.

The Code aims to ensure sensitive, effective management of such situations in order to avoid potential conflicts of interest and perception or accusation of bias, favouritism or prejudice. The Council must also ensure that all employees feel confident of fair treatment without the fear that a close personal relationship will influence their or other employees' treatment or broader working relationships.

Where there is a relationship (as defined), this should be disclosed, in confidence, to the Line Manager and HR by the employee(s) concerned (by completing the Declaration Form for Personal Interests). This disclosure is recorded on a Register of Declared Interests, stored centrally by HR and also on the employee's personal file. Failure to disclose a personal relationship could leave an officer open to allegations of misconduct should subsequent issues arise. When a relationship at work is declared, the impact of the relationship must be assessed by HR in consultation with a relevant manager (for example, Senior Manager, Director or Monitoring Officer) in the following areas:

- Potential or actual conflicts of interest
- Potential or actual confidentiality issues
- Impact on service users or the public
- Potential operational issues

It is very important that any relationship is not seen to bring advantage to an employee and closer personal relationships between a manager and one of their staff should be avoided. If such a relationship develops, it may be necessary to redeploy one of the employees.

If a declared relationship ends at any point, then HR must be informed. They will remove the record from the employee's personal file and from the Register of Declared Interests.

5.0 Outside Commitments

Employees should be aware that their contract prevents them from taking outside employment which conflicts with the Council's interests. This encompasses employment both within, and outside of, the bounds of the district.

Employees are required to obtain written consent from their Senior Manager before taking up any outside employment. This will be recorded on their personal files. It should also be formally recorded in the Register of Interests held by HR. If the request to take outside employment is from a Senior Manager, the consent must be obtained from a Director. In all cases Senior Managers must ensure employees remain compliant with the working time directive. Advice can be provided by the HR Team.

Employees must not engage in private work in Council time, on Council property or using Council equipment. Employees must also ensure that they clearly communicate that their private work is not being undertaken in association with the Council.

These provisions do not apply to public appointments or voluntary work such as a Magistrate.

6.0 Intellectual Property, Inventions and Patents

Intellectual property is a legal term that refers to the rights and obligations received and granted, including copyright. Ownership of intellectual property is determined by considering the circumstance in which it was conceived and developed. The Council owns the copyright in materials made by or under their directions. This includes inventions, computer coding, drawings and original creative writings. Whether an employee or contractor, copyright in material produced in the course of work belongs to the employing Council, unless otherwise explicitly provided for in an employee's contract of employment.

Inventions and Patents made before 1 June 1978 are the property of the employer if made in the course of that employer's employment. However, the Patents Act 1977 states that after the 1 June 1978 inventions are only the property of the employer if:

- They have been made in the course of the employee's normal duties;
- They have been made in the course of duties specifically assigned to the employee and where invention might reasonably be expected, or;
- It was made in the course of the employee's duties and at the time the employee had (because of the nature of their duties and particular responsibilities arising from them) a special obligation to further the interests of the employer.

7.0 Personal Interests

Employees must register any interest they or their family members have which may conflict with the Council's interests, by providing written notification to their line manager who will then forward to Human Resources. Such interests include, but may not be limited to: employment by, substantial shareholding in, or membership of any company or body, including any voluntary organisation, which has or may enter into a contractual relationship with the Council, or which is involved in campaigning or lobbying in respect of any Council activity.

At no time should an employee allow the impression to be created that they are, or may be, using their position to promote a private or personal interest.

Employees must not process any claim or application to the Council for themselves, a relative or personal friend.

Such personal interests must be logged in the Register of Personal Interests.

8.0 Separation of Roles during Tendering

Employees involved in the tendering process and dealing with contractors should be clear on the separation of client and contractor roles within the Council.

Senior employees who have both a client and contractor's responsibility must be aware of – and demonstrate the need for – accountability and openness.

Employees in contractor and client units must exercise fairness and impartiality when dealing with all customers, suppliers, other contractors and sub-contractors.

Employees who are privy to confidential information on tenders or costs for either internal or external contractors should not disclose that information to any unauthorised party or organisation.

Employees contemplating a management buy-out should, at the earliest possible moment, inform the relevant Chief Officer, as appropriate, and withdraw from the in-house contract process.

Employees should ensure that no special favour is shown to current or recent former employees or their partners, close relatives or associates in awarding contracts to businesses run by them or employing them in a senior or relevant managerial capacity.

9.0 Corruption

It is a serious criminal offence to corruptly receive or give any gift, loan, fee, reward or advantage. If an allegation is made, an individual may have to demonstrate that any such rewards have not been corruptly obtained.

Fraud

Fraud is a deliberate deception to gain a personal advantage. The effects of fraud or corrupt activities can have a severe negative impact on everyone. These actions have no place within an ethical organisation.

Fraud includes

- deception
- bribery
- forgery
- extortion
- corruption
- theft
- conspiracy
- embezzlement
- misappropriation
- false representation
- concealment of material facts
- collusion

An employee must not undertake or assist in fraud, whether intentional or not. Breach of this could result in disciplinary action and criminal prosecution.

Reporting Procedures

The Whistleblowing Policy intends to encourage and enable anybody who works for or on behalf of us to raise serious concerns and to make it clear that reporting can happen without fear of reprisal.

In accordance with the Public Interest Disclosure Act 1998, the Council undertakes to protect, as best it can, an employee who blows the whistle from personal claims, victimisation, harassment or bullying as a result of his or her disclosure. This assurance is not extended to someone who maliciously raises a matter they know is untrue; such instances may be subject to the Council's disciplinary procedures.

10.0 Standard of Appearance

The Council aims to present a welcoming and professional image to residents, Members, and all other stakeholders. Employees should dress in a smart and presentable manner promoting an appropriate appearance. In high-profile situations (e.g. court appearances, media interviews) it is expected that formal business wear is worn.

We value and welcome the diversity of our workforce. We will take account of ethnic and religious dress requirements with sensitivity.

With the prior agreement of the Corporate Management Team, it will also be permissible to wear other items of clothing for nationally recognised charity events or social events.

Personal Protective equipment (PPE) will be provided where this has been identified as being necessary through general risk assessment. Where PPE is provided, the employee and their manager must ensure that it is worn and used in accordance with safety procedures and training. High-visibility clothing should be cleaned as often as is necessary to ensure that it retains its high-visibility properties and that it presents the appropriate appearance.

Not wearing provided PPE can put the employee and /or their colleagues, and the public, at risk – and therefore could be considered Gross Misconduct.

Where a uniform is issued this should always be worn for work in its entirety.

All items issued (i.e. uniform, PPE and badges) must be returned to the line manager when employment ends.

Identification badges must be worn at all times whilst working, regardless of where a meeting is held.

11.0 Conduct Outside Working Time

There is a respect of private lives and, more specifically, the personal data of all employees but employees should avoid doing anything that might adversely affect the reputation of the Council, bring the Council into disrepute or affect their ability to carry out their duties during work hours. Should such misconduct occur, the Council reserves the right to implement disciplinary proceedings.

12.0 Using Social Media

The Council recognises that many employees make use of social media in a personal and professional capacity. Employees must be aware that certain behaviours can be damaging and they can damage the reputation of the organisation if they are recognised as being one of our employees.

Any communications that employees make through social media must not:

- Bring the organisation into disrepute, for example by:
 - Criticising or arguing with customers, colleagues or Elected Members;
 - Making defamatory comments about individuals or other organisations or groups; or
 - Posting images that are inappropriate or links to inappropriate content
- Breach confidentiality, for example by:
 - Revealing confidential information owned by the Council;
 - Giving away confidential information about an individual (such as a colleague or customer contact) or organisation
- Do anything that could be considered discriminatory against – or bullying or harassment of – any individual, for example by:
 - Making offensive or derogatory comments relating to sex, gender reassignment, race (including nationality), disability, sexual orientation, religion or belief, or age;
 - Using social media to bully another individual (such as an employee); or
 - Posting images that are discriminatory or offensive (or links to such content)

For further information, reference should be made to the Social Media Guidance available on the intranet.

13.0 Substances and Alcohol

The inappropriate use of alcohol or substances can damage the health and wellbeing of employees and have far-reaching effects.

All employees must adhere to the Smoke Free Policy in the interests of protecting the health and well-being of everyone working at and visiting the Councils premises.

At work, alcohol or substance misuse can result in reduced levels of attendance, impaired work performance and increased risks to health and safety. The effects of alcohol or substance-use may also be detrimental to the Council's reputation and image, and its ability to deliver high quality services.

Alcohol and substance misuse can affect behaviour, performance and relationships, both within work and outside. It is recognised that such issues are very sensitive and individuals may face difficulty in coping with this aspect of their lives. The Substance and Alcohol Misuse policy and procedures aim to offer appropriate support and guidance where possible, resorting to sanctions only where necessary.

Employees have a responsibility to ensure they comply with the principles of the Substance and Alcohol Misuse policy and procedures. They are expected to present a professional, courteous and efficient image to those with whom they come into contact at all times. They therefore have a personal responsibility to adopt a responsible attitude towards the consumption of alcohol and other substances to which the policy relates.

Information, Confidentiality and Communications

14.0 Information Disclosure

The law requires that certain types of information must be available to Elected Members, auditors, government departments, service users, trade unions and the public. The Council may decide to be open about other types of information.

Employees must be aware of which information the authority is permitted to release or not permitted to release due to the operation of law or a policy decision. If in doubt, guidance should be sought from an appropriate officer, such as the Monitoring Officer/Deputy Monitoring Officer before information is disclosed.

15.0 Confidentiality

Many employees are in a position to obtain information in the normal course of their employment which is highly confidential, politically and commercially sensitive, or is personal information protected by Data Protection Regulations.

Employees may not disclose confidential information, whether verbally, in writing or electronically. Employees must not use any information for a personal reason or benefit, nor should they pass it on to others who might use it in such a way. This includes information about the work of the Council, its employees or Elected Members and the public. Employees must make themselves aware of the requirements of the Data Protection Act 2018 and Freedom of Information Act 2000 and obtain advice from the Council's designated Governance & Information Officer, where applicable.

Employees are responsible for the security of information in their possession and must ensure that it remains secure at all times.

Appropriate security measures should be taken by employees when they leave their desk or when working from home or from another location.

When an employee leaves the employment of the Council they must still respect the confidentiality of official information that has been made available to them in the course of their duties and not use this information for private, commercial and political gain.

Inappropriate disclosure of information or a breach of these rules in any other way will render employees liable to disciplinary action and could lead to criminal prosecution.

16.0 Security

Employees must wear or carry their ID badge or card at all times whilst on Council premises. All employees are required to appropriately challenge people in secure areas of the Council's premises without either an Employee ID or Visitor's Badge.

Employees must not allow any individual not displaying an ID or visitor's badge to follow them into any secure area of the Council's premises (this includes friends and relatives).

For the protection of the public and employees, it is particularly important that employees are easily identifiable whilst working out in the community. When making visits to the homes or premises of the public, official Council identification should be presented promptly without being requested.

17.0 Talking to the Media

Employees should be conscious of the sensitivity of some requests for information from the media. In responding to these requests, only the Chief Executive, Directors, Senior Managers and the Communications Team should speak directly with the media. Other members of staff may deal with them providing they have permission to do so from their Director or Senior Manager.

Financial Management and Use of Resources

18.0 Appointment and other employment matters

Employees involved in the appointment of staff must follow established recruitment procedures at all times (see Recruitment Policy available on the intranet). Relationships with an applicant must be declared to HR. Employees should not be involved in decisions about appointment, discipline, promotion or pay adjustments for someone with whom they have such a relationship as described above.

19.0 Gifts and Hospitality

Employees must show good sense and tact when receiving offers of gifts and/or hospitality, and any such offer must be discussed with their line manager or an appropriate senior officer prior to their acceptance. (N.B. a senior officer is defined as one whose post is included within the senior management structure.) The senior officer may agree that the gift/hospitality can be accepted, however may request that the gift is shared with the employee's team.

When considering offers of gifts and/or hospitality, employees must be particularly sensitive as to the timing in relation to decisions which the Council may be taking affecting those providing such. No such gifts or hospitality are to be knowingly accepted from contractors who are submitting a tender during a tendering period.

Employees must be aware that it is a serious criminal offence under the Local Government Act 1972 for them to corruptly receive or give any gift, loan, fee, reward or advantage for doing, or not doing, anything or show, favour, or disfavour, to any person in their official capacity.

Small gifts up to the estimated value of £25.00, such as chocolates or flowers, may be accepted. Where any gifts or hospitality in excess of the estimated value of £25 are either offered or received, employees must submit a declaration, by completing the Gift and Hospitality Form, to HR for entry on to the register of Gifts and Hospitality, within 28 days. In such instances, it is the right of the authority to require that such gifts or hospitality be allocated in an appropriate way (i.e. donation to corporate causes).

In normal circumstances cash must not be accepted. Exceptions to this may be permitted, provided that the amount given does not exceed £5.00, it is then shared with the rest of the team, and the approval of the Line Manager has been received. If the individuals are in receipt of monies in this circumstance, it is their responsibility to declare this as part of a tax self-assessment form.

Where necessary, an employee declining gifts and/or hospitality must do so in as gracious a manner as possible, clearly explaining that the Code prevents them from accepting.

20.0 Use of Financial Resources

Employees must ensure that public funds entrusted to them are used in a responsible and lawful manner, and not make personal use of our property or facilities unless properly authorised to do so

The best possible value for money to the local community must be obtained in all transactions. We emphasise both to the public and employees the importance we place upon probity, financial control and honest administration. We will keep our arrangements for the prevention and detection of fraud and corruption under constant review. We will pursue all suspected irregularities and take appropriate action.

Where an employee has direct responsibility for financial transactions, they must comply with our financial regulations. For example, when ordering goods and services on our behalf.

If we find that an employee has committed any act of fraud or theft, we will regard this as gross misconduct. They may face dismissal. We may involve the police to decide whether to instigate a criminal investigation.

21.0 Equipment and Materials

The Council's telephone, computer systems, vehicles and other equipment and materials are the property of the Council and are provided for employees' business purposes and for interaction with the public in the delivery of services.

Personal use of the internet must be strictly within the guidelines set out in the Council's Information Security Policy which is available to all staff on the Council's intranet. Internet use should be restricted to the employee's break times, such as lunch hours, and limited to issues which cannot reasonably be dealt with outside working hours. Any continued or extensive use of the Council's facilities should be discussed and agreed with the appropriate Line Manager.

Serious cases of misuse of the Council's electronic communications systems may result in dismissal of the employee on the grounds of gross misconduct. Further detail can be found in the Information Security Policy available on the Council's intranet.

22.0 External Sponsorship

When an outside organisation wishes to sponsor or is seeking to sponsor a Council activity, whether by invitation, tender, negotiation or voluntarily, the basic rules concerning acceptance of gifts or hospitality apply. Particular care must be taken when dealing with contractors or potential contractors.

23.0 Council Sponsorship of Community or Individual Activities

When the Council – through sponsorship, grant aid, financial or other means – is giving support in the community, and employees are giving advice, they should ensure that it is impartial and that there is no conflict of interest involved.

When the Council wishes to sponsor an event or service, neither an employee – nor their partner, relative or personal friend/s – must benefit from the sponsorship in a direct way without there being full disclosure to the appropriate manager, which should be recorded on the Register of Interests.

24.0 Debts with the Employing Authority

No employee should owe money to the Council (i.e. Council Tax arrears), and the existence of such a debt may result in disciplinary action being taken if the debt has been subject to a court procedure. Any such debt should be brought to the attention of the employee's Line Manager or HR as soon as the employee is able.

Debts accrued as a result of payroll errors are exempt from the requirement for employees to inform their line managers. However, where the officer becomes aware of such an overpayment without it having been notified to them by HR, it is their responsibility to bring it to the attention of HR.

Any loans, training debt or other payments needing to be made to the Council prior to leaving the organisation will be deducted from an employee's final pay, however, if the debt is larger than the amount being paid, an agreement will need to be made with the Council prior to exit on the outstanding monies will be paid back.

Failure to Follow the Code of Conduct

All employees are responsible for ensuring that the Code of Conduct is applied. The Council understand that an employee may need advice in order to make sure the employee is compliant with the Code of Conduct. If an employee needs guidance on any topic related to the Code of Conduct, contact your manager, or ask someone in the HR team or another manager.

Failure to follow the Code in any aspect may be raised in disciplinary action taken against employees for a breach of the Council's rules or procedures. Criminal sanctions may apply where an abuse of position has occurred as a result of a Council contract or where an employee or his/her relatives have gained pecuniary advantages.

If employees fail to make any declaration required by this Code, it will not, in itself, constitute a disciplinary offence. However, should a relationship emerge which was relevant to the employee's duties and this has not been declared as set out in this Code, non-declaration might be taken as evidence of misconduct or gross misconduct.

